Taft steps down as leader

Liberal Leader Kevin Taft tells a news conference at the Legislature yesterday that he is stepping down as party boss. He will stay on as an MLA.

Liberal boss resigns after party's major defeat in election

By JEFF CUMMINGS
Metro Edmonton

Alberta Opposition Leader Kevin Taft told reporters that he isn't a career politician when he announced he is stepping down as head of the Liberal party yesterday after suffering a major defeat at the hands of voters.

"It's just time for somebody like me, who has not, and never has, thought of myself to be a career politician, to open the door for somebody else," said Taft.

Taft, however, says he will still continue to raise several issues with the Tory government as a Liberal MLA for Edmonton-Riverview and said he hasn't ruled out running for the next election 3½ years from now.

Alberta Opposition Leader Kevin Taft

Taft has been pondering his future since the March 3 election that resulted in the cash-strapped Liberals losing nearly half of their caucus, dropping to nine seats from 16 in the 83-seat legislature.

The Grit leader also took an unusual two-week vacation during a busy spring session last month, but Taft said earlier it was a holiday that was impossible to change with travel agents.

"My biggest regret, well pretty obviously not doing better in the election this spring," said Taft.

And he says it will be up to the party to decide when they would like him to step aside, but he would prefer that it happen sometime before January 2009.

Grant Dunlop, the Liberals' party president, said plans for a leadership contest could be settled after an internal board meeting two weeks from now.

Alberta New Democrat Leader Brian Mason wished Taft well, saying he has been in "politics for all the right reasons."

"Mr. Taft did a very good job on behalf of his party and on behalf of Albertans," said Mason.

Premier Ed Stelmach chose not to make a statement about Taft's announcement, said a spokesman with his office.

Who's in leadership race?

With the departure of Kevin Taft, speculation is swirling at the Legislature on who will take the reins of the Liberal party. Grit officials say the contest will kick off sometime this summer.

Liberal MLAs reportedly interested include Edmonton-Currie MLA Laurie Blakeman and Calgary-Currie MLA Dave Taylor.

"I'm thinking seriously about it," said Taylor during a news conference at his constituency office in Calgary yesterday.

Blakeman told Metro Edmonton yesterday she is considering a run at the leadership.

Calgary Mountain View MLA David Swan and Calgary Mayor Dave Bronconier have also been touted as a possible contenders.

Capital Health's restaurant reports to go up online

By VICTORIA HANDSIDES
Metro Edmonton

Ever wondered about what goes on behind the kitchen doors at your favourite restaurant? The food may taste good, but can now come with a steaming side of truth after a few clicks of a mouse.

On July 1, Capital Health will launch a website listing health inspection reports for every restaurant in the Capital Region, done after April 1.

The website will list the five most recent reports — good, bad, or ugly. Restaurants can be searched by name, city, or alphabetically.

"The public told us they were interested in getting this information in terms of making their decisions about where to go and eat," said Capital Health exec Dr. Gerry Preddy. "Food safety is a prime consideration."

Before the site, citizens had to call Capital Health to inquire about restaurants.

Edmonton business owners feel the new system is another step in ensuring everyone gets what they bargained for.

"Somebody might think twice about going somewhere now, or they might think they got a really good report, so it will be a bonus for both customers and business owners," said James Fiorillo, owner of Fantasia Gelateria.

Man Tasered after jabbing at police

PIPE Police zapped a junked-out man on a rampage early yesterday, after he jabbed at them with a broken meth pipe.

Just after 2 a.m., police responded to a call north of Whyte Avenue on 101 Street, and tried to calm a drugged-up man, who slashed at them with a small, jagged glass pipe. The man was finally subdued after being zapped three times.

Const. Joe Tassone, who trains officers on the stun guns, said the Taser has been used around 100 times in here in the past year; down 75 per cent from the year prior.

Police said the suspect was transported to hospital in relation to an injury, one not caused by the Taser.

City waste fuels ethanol project

$70M facility for producing biofuel coming in 2010

By ERIC BOWLING
for Metro Edmonton

Edmonton is pioneering the world's first industrial scale municipal waste to ethanol facility which will take trash from your can and turn it into gas for your tank.

"Edmonton could be the first city on the continent to have 90 per cent waste diversion from its landfills," said Don Pierce, president of Greenfield Ethanol's Advanced Biofuels Group, one of the businesses involved in the project.

The $70 million facility,

« Edmonton could be the first city on the continent to have 90 per cent waste diversion from its landfills. »

expected to be completed in late 2010, will take one ton of garbage and turn it into 360 litres of ethanol.

Edmonton is chipping in $50 million of that, with the Alberta government putting in an additional $20 million.

The facility is expected to produce 36 million litres of biofuels per year and reduce Alberta's carbon dioxide footprint by more than 6 million tons.

Ethanol is much cleaner alternative to gasoline. It has been the subject of recent controversy because the corn and wheat used to make the ethanol uses up farmland, driving food prices up.

That won't be a problem here; all the ethanol produced here is made from garbage like wood, paper and plastics that are not recyclable, explained Vincent Chornet, President of Enerkem, which provided the technology for the project.

The project is the latest in a long line of Edmonton based environmental initiatives.

"Edmonton is the only city in Alberta to produce electricity from landfills," pointed out Mayor Stephen Mandel.

A tribute to the missing

Artist's exhibit in memory of victims of 'survival sex'

By VICTORIA HANDYSIDES
Metro Edmonton

Fifty women who disappeared off the streets of Vancouver's lower east side may be gone, but the haunting memory of their lives that most tried to ignore live loud and clear.

A Roomful of Missing Women is a bone-chilling yet captivating look at the reality of life in the shadows, and is human condition artist Betty Kovacic's tribute to the memory of the missing women, most of whom were victims of what she calls "survival sex."

"The reality of their lives does not make them any less significant than anyone else, and it is my really strong belief that people, regardless if we understand their lifestyle, need to be kept safe."

Artist and creator of Roomful of Missing Women, Betty Kovacic, centre, speaks to Works festival volunteers about her exhibit yesterday afternoon, which is at the Stanley Milner Library.

The exhibit, which takes up an entire room in the basement of the Stanley Milner Library, runs through the course of The Works, which ends Wednesday.

For six years, the Prince George native created images of 50 missing women, some of whom have been found dead, but most of whom seem to have completely disappeared.

"All of a sudden, it hit me that they'll never get a chance to realize the dreams that other people had."

Paintings of the women line the room, their eyes staring inward to 50 dangling blow-up dolls, shrouded in black cloaks, wearing sashes with childhood dreams scrawled in gold, to signify importance.

"Fifty represent their physical reality, and the dreams are dreams of women, including ones involved in survival sex and women who were related to some of the (missing)," Kovacic said.

"Sex dolls are a perfect symbol for society's objectification of the women to unfeeling, unloving, unreal, disposable objects. I thought, somehow, we need to connect the fact that these people we see here are just the same as we are."

Surveys conducted by Sustainable Resource Development in May and June showed that a high number of the pests survived after re-

A high number of the bugs survived in south-western Alberta,

The provincial government says the bugs have threatened the health of six million hectares of pine forest in Alberta since the infestation began in 2006.

Alberta's Mandatory Ignition Interlock Program

Effective July 1, 2008, Alberta's Mandatory Ignition Interlock Program will come into effect for Alberta drivers who have:

- Been convicted of drinking and driving with a blood-alcohol reading of double the legal limit or higher.
- Refused to provide a breath or blood sample.
- Been a repeat offender during the preceding 10-year period.

After serving the prohibition period, drivers must apply to the Alberta Transportation Safety Board to have an ignition interlock device installed in their vehicle of choice at their own expense.

The ignition interlock is an alcohol-sensing device attached to a vehicle's ignition system. When alcohol is detected the driver will not be able to start or drive the vehicle. The device also calls for random breath samples. Reinstatement or unrestricted driving privileges at the end of six months depends on the participant's performance in the Program.

The Mandatory Ignition Interlock Program is part of the Alberta Government's commitment to increase safety on our roads and decrease drinking-and-driving incidences.

Dion stakes political future on plan

Liberal leader prepares to sell 'Green Shift'

A bullish Stéphane Dion says he's confident he can win over Canadians with his party's climate change plan, even though it will mean higher energy costs.

"It's a debate and we intend to win it because we have a good policy, good values," Dion said.

"It's the first time in history I guess that you have this debate about climate change that may be at the core of an election," Dion said, hinting that his party, after several missed opportunities, may finally be ready to topple the minority Tories.

Dion defended the twin goals of his party's ambitious

"Green Shift" to curb greenhouse gas emissions while at the same time reforming the country's tax system to put more money in the wallets of the poor.

"I have received some criticism, 'why is it about helping the poor?' That has nothing to do with climate change and the environment," Dion said.

Under the Liberal proposal, a carbon tax would be slapped on fossil fuels, meaning higher costs for individuals, homeowners and businesses.

But Dion has promised the Liberal plan will be revenue neutral and that the federal tax windfall, estimated to be about $15 billion, will be returned to individuals and corporations in the form of tax breaks. Dion, who has staked his own political future on the green plan, hinted that current debate is just the prelude for an election battle that could come this fall.

CSIS scolded in terror case

The Supreme Court yesterday scolded the country's spy agency for destroying evidence about a man fighting deportation over alleged terror links, in the government's second loss in a high-profile security case this week.

But the Supreme Court refused to completely stop the case against Adil Charkaoui, a Moroccan national living as a legal immigrant in Montreal.

Authorities allege he trained at an al Qaeda camp in Afghanistan.

CSIS had a duty to give immigration officials all of information it had on Charkaoui when they were deciding whether to consider him a threat to national security. Charkaoui denies he has any links to al Qaeda. Charkaoui argued CSIS violated his rights by destroying notes made during interviews with him, making them unavailable to a judge deciding if the government was right to issue a security certificate against him.

B.C. top of the drug trade: RCMP

Recent bust shows evidence drugs headed abroad

By ANDREA WOO
for Metro Ottawa

One week after busting the biggest drug lab in B.C.'s history, police are calling the province a leader in drug production.

Insp. Brian Cantera of the RCMP's national drug enforcement branch introduced the term "super lab" at a news conference yesterday while standing next to eight bags of colourful ecstasy tablets discovered while executing a search warrant on a Richmond barn last Friday.

"A super lab is a clandestine lab which is capable of producing more than five kilograms of finished synthetic drugs," said Cantera.

He added that inside the barn, police discovered more than 100 kg of "pure, crystallized ecstasy product" — enough to fill 14 detergent-sized buckets — and an estimated one million pressed tablets.

There were also two fully-automated pill presses that were capable of producing 8,000 to 12,000 pills each in an hour, various chemicals used in making drugs, explosive devices and nine fully-automatic weapons.

Cantera said the sophisticated lab had been active for several months and was linked to organized crime. There was also evidence the drugs produced were intended for export out of country.

Cpl. Richard De Jong of the RCMP's drugs and organized crime squad said that such labs cause considerable damage to the environment and that every one kg of ecstasy produced equals seven to 10 kg of waste.

The RCMP says organized crime groups active in B.C. are earning extreme profits off the world drug trade and there are a number of international investigations coming out of B.C.

Gun control dealt blow in U.S.

Individuals have right to bear arms: Supreme Court

Individual Americans have a right to own guns, the Supreme Court ruled yesterday for the first time in the country's history, striking down a strict gun control law in the U.S. capital.

The landmark 5-4 ruling marked the first time in nearly 70 years the high court has addressed the Second Amendment of the U.S. Constitution. It rejected the argument that the right to keep and bear arms was tied to service in a state militia.

Justice Antonin Scalia said for the majority, the Second Amendment protects an individual right to possess a firearm unconnected with militia service and to use it for traditional lawful purposes, such as self-defense in the home.

However, he said the new right was not unlimited.

The court struck down two parts of the country's strictest gun control law adopted in Washington, D.C., 32 years ago — the ban on private handgun possession and the requirement that firearms kept at home be unloaded and disassembled or bound by a trigger lock.

Tsvangirai calls on UN to pressure President Mugabe

Zimbabweans will be forced to vote in a presidential election today because of the presence of troops and militias loyal to President Robert Mugabe, opposition leader Morgan Tsvangirai said.

"What will happen tomorrow is that people will be forced to vote ... because the military were mobilized to accompany this process," Tsvangirai said yesterday in an interview with Portuguese radio station Renascenca, which gave Reuters a transcript.

"Traditional leaders are no postponement

» President Robert Mugabe has resisted calls to postpone today's run-off election, saying he would permit no interference in his country, even from the African Union.

being forced to tell their communities to go and vote," Tsvangirai said. "They are being told they have to vote tomorrow. So the violence and pressure on the people is continuing."

The opposition leader, who beat Mugabe in the first round in March, but did not secure an outright majority, withdrew from the race on Sunday after a wave of attacks on his supporters.

He said the Southern African Development Community had done everything possible to resolve the situation. The regional grouping has called on Mugabe to postpone the vote.

"So far the Southern African Development Community has done everything in their power, they have their own limitation," he said. "The only body that has international jurisdiction to enforce anything is the United Nations."

In the interview, Tsvangirai said that all possible diplomatic pressure should be put on Mugabe, pointing out that Apartheid in neighbouring South Africa was beaten by international pressure.

Gaza Strip rocket fire strains truce

Palestinian militants in the Gaza Strip fired a makeshift rocket into southern Israel yesterday, putting further strain on a week-old truce as Israel kept border crossings into the Hamas-ruled territory closed.

Both sides traded blame for violations of the ceasefire Egypt had brokered in the hope of furthering U.S.-backed peace talks that have shown little sign of progress.

No casualties were reported in the rocket attack, which was claimed by al-Aqsa Martyrs Brigades, a militant group belonging to Palestinian President Mahmoud Abbas's Fatah faction.

Medical NGO leaving Somalia

Doctors Without Borders says aid workers targeted Somalis face mass starvation, with snipers, bombers and kidnappers increasingly targeting aid workers and civilians in the African nation, aid organization Doctors Without Borders said yesterday.

The group, also known by its French name Médecins Sans Frontières or MSF, has withdrawn international staff amid the humanitarian death toll

» The Mogadishu-based Elman Peace and Human Rights Organization estimates 2,136 civilians have been killed this year, bringing the civilian death toll to 8,636 since early 2007.

crisis because of violence from an Islamist-led insurgency against the Somali government and its Ethiopian allies.

Violence against civilians has come from all sides, MSF said in a conference call.

Refugees are crammed into dirty shelters while prices for rice and corn have tripled since the start of 2008.

"Every time we think that it can't get much worse, it does," said Nicolas de Torre, executive director of MSF in the United States.

"Aid workers are increasingly targeted, ... kidnapped," he said.

Narcotics surge aids militants, UN says

Narcotics supplies have increased sharply in parts of Afghanistan and Colombia where insurgents are in control, helping them fund their activities, the UN said yesterday.

While cultivation of the opium poppy stabilized or dropped in many parts of Afghanistan, five southern regions controlled by Taliban militants produced enough poppy to double the world's opium output between 2005 and 2007, the U.N. Office on Drugs and Crime said in its World Drug Report 2008.

» Approximately 208 million people or 4.9 per cent of people aged 15 to 64 have used drugs at least once in the last 12 months: the World Drug Report.

On the other side of the world in Colombia, coca cultivation rose by 27 percent in 2007, but cocaine production was concentrated in just 10 of the country's 195 municipalities.

Afghanistan remained the world's top heroin producer last year while Colombia was the foremost producer of cocaine. "In Colombia, just like in Afghanistan, the regions where most coca is grown are under the control of insurgents," UNODC executive director Antonio Maria Costa said yesterday.

Fossett search straining budget

National Guard picked up tab for missing millionaire

The cost of searching for missing adventurer Steve Fossett — estimated at $1.6 million — has strained the Nevada National Guard's training budget as one of its units prepares to deploy overseas, according to a Nevada state audit.

An Illinois judge declared Fossett legally dead in February, five months after the airplane the millionaire adventurer was flying disappeared over Nevada.

Fossett, a 63-year-old holder of several aviation and sailing records, vanished with his airplane after taking off from a private airstrip in western Nevada, one of the most remote and uninhabited regions of the continental United States, on Sept. 3.

An exhaustive search failed to find any wreckage. The commanding officer of the state's National Guard now wants the state to reimburse the guard for assisting in the search.

Eskimos raring to go

While the Edmonton Eskimos aren't putting much stock in their 37-7 drubbing of the Saskatchewan Roughriders at Commonwealth Stadium going into their CFL season opener in Regina tomorrow, it's not like they've put the game out of their minds.

Specifically, it was seeing Ricky Ray prone on the turf after a hit by Kitwana Jones and Dek Bane knocked their quarterback out of the pre-season tilt with a sore neck, as well as numbness and tingling in his extremities.

Suffice to say, the Eskimos' rebuilt offensive line will be highly motivated to make sure nobody lays a finger on Ray at Mosaic Stadium. Likewise, Ray won't have a problem getting up for this one.

Let's play. "It was a tough play," said Ray, who was seeing his first action since being put out with a shoulder injury in Game 13 last season.

"The first part was the facemask (Jones). He pulled my head back. The second one (Bak) was leading with his head ... what can I do about it now? I'm just glad nothing serious came out of it."

At 5-12-1 last season and out of the playoffs for a second straight year, the Eskimos have a game to win first and foremost. Still, there's clearly some emotion lingering. The Jones-Bake tag-team on Ray aside, the Eskimos will be rolling out an offence that promises more quick-strike capability. Of course, more wow factor in the play-book won't mean a thing unless the Esks execute, and that begins with the big men up front.

"The bottom line is you want guys around you can trust," said veteran Dan Comiskey. "It feels like we've got a start to that. We've got to get together and mesh a little more. As the year goes on, we'll do that."

As for what happened last week?

"No comment," said Comiskey, before the set-up. "What a great front seven we're going to be facing. They're fantastic across the board. I'm excited about the challenge."

As for Ray, who had off-season surgery to repair his shoulder, he's ready to take another crack at the Roughriders. "I just wanted to get out there and take some contact again," he said. "I felt pretty good, other than that incident. It'll be nice to put that behind me now and just move forward with the season."

In a decade covering the Edmonton sports scene, Robin Brownlee has been the news-breaker and insightful voice for sports fans in Oil Country.

» NBA The Milwaukee Bucks shipped forwards Yi Jianlian and Bobby Simmons to the New Jersey Nets yesterday in exchange for forward Richard Jefferson.

Jefferson is coming off a career-high 22.6 point-per-game season. Jefferson has three years and $42 million US left on his contract.

» NHL Bryan McCabe is all but done as a Maple Leaf. Maple Leafs GM Cliff Fletcher, through assistant Jeff Jackson, told McCabe's agent Ian Pulver the Leafs have no intention of absorbing the salary cap hit on the remaining three seasons of McCabe's contract. McCabe is owed $6.15 million US for next season and $4.15 million in each of the final two seasons.

» BASEBALL The Houston Astros have placed pitcher Shawn Chacon on waivers a day after a reported confrontation with the team's general manager, Ed Wade.

Spain crushes Russia

Will take on Germany in Euro final on Sunday

EURO 2008

Spain reached the European Championship final for the first time in 24 years on yesterday when they turned on the style to overwhelm Russia 3-0 and set up a meeting with Germany in Sunday's final.

Three crisply-created second-half goals by Xavi, substitute Daniel Guiza and David Silva were a fair reward for Spain's gradual dominance in an enthralling game played in driving rain.

"We're in the final, it's what we all wanted but, of course, now we've got a team in front of us which is Germany and that's a very big challenge," said Spain coach Luis Aragones.

"The first half was difficult but our second half performance was extraordinary."

The only downside for Spain was a thigh injury for David Villa that almost certainly rules the four-goal striker out of the final but it might be a blessing in disguise because Cesc Fabregas, who replaced him after 35 minutes, was superb.

Villa's injury forced Spain to adopt a five-man midfield and they gradually took command as Russia's fast-passing counter-attacks struggled for space.

Future looking Rose-y for revamped Bulls

Chicago grabs hometown guard with top draft pick

The Chicago Bulls fulfilled Derrick Rose's childhood dream as the point guard became the first pick in the 2008 NBA Draft and will play for his hometown team.

The Chicago native helped lead the Memphis Tigers to the championship game of the 2008 NCAA Tournament during his freshman season, losing to Kansas in overtime. He led Memphis with his 189 assists and was second on the squad with 14.9 points per game.

Rose was part of draft history as five of the top seven picks were college freshmen. He was followed by Kansas State forward Michael Beasley

Sun setting on CD era

WHEN THE first compact disc came off the line in Hanover in the summer of 1982 Germany was still divided in two. So were our choices when it came to recorded music. Some preferred the cassette, which had been introduced 18 years earlier and was enjoying a boom, thanks to a new thing called the Sony Walkman.

But most people stuck with the vinyl record.

The 33 1/3 RPM LP was introduced by Columbia Records on June 21, 1948. RCA — intent on launching a Blu-ray vs. HD-DVD-type format war — countered the following February with the 7-inch single. Together, they reigned as the kings of the formats until that first CD was pressed over three decades later. Pre-recorded cassettes

The CD medium is on its decline disappeared. Singles and LPs were pushed to the back walls where their rack space shrunk to almost nothing.

But now it's the compact disc's turn to fade away. Many people will say it was doomed by the Internet and downloading but the truth is the CD began to die the moment that Strauss (or Abba) CD was made back in 1982. Once there was an digital format that could be flawlessly and endlessly copied, its fate was sealed.

Today, the world's largest music retailer is iTunes while the former number one, Wal-Mart, has signalled that it'll be stocking fewer CDs.

A recent report predicts that digital downloads will blow past CDs by sometime in 2010. Over the next three years, the Canadian market for CDs will drop by 50 per cent.

And as for vinyl records? Sales are up 36 per cent this year.

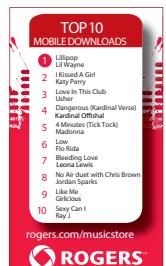

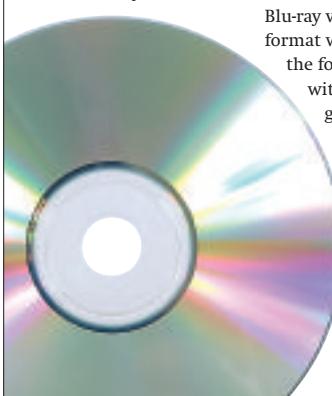

Go figure.

Jolie, McAvoy make Wanted worthwhile

Wanted

Stars James McAvoy, Angelina Jolie
Director Timur Bekmambetov

18A

By STEVE GOW
for Metro Edmonton

REVIEW ESSENTIALLY, Wanted is two flicks in one. First, and most astutely, it's a movie about the importance of destiny; a film that's not afraid to ask the audience to consider their fate and purpose of being in life.

Although that may sound unappetizingly existential for hardcore action fans, consider the second movie that mostly comprises Wanted: A non-stop thriller about a secret society of assassins who shoot people in an impossibly cool fashion.

Wesley Gibson (James McAvoy of Atonement) is a bored, uninspired office jockey who begrudgingly takes abuse from his donut-famished boss, an adulterous girlfriend and his best buddy (who's also the person sleeping with his girlfriend).

Angelina Jolie gets a grip in Wanted.

When Wesley is swept away to a secret fraternity by a sexy woman appropriately named Fox (Angelina Jolie), he finds out his true purpose and becomes a super-skilled killer destined to seek revenge for his father's murder.

Directed by Timur Bekmambetov (Nightwatch), Wanted makes an impressive Hollywood debut for the Russian filmmaker. Indeed, the visuals are incredibly impressive as Bekmambetov conjures up a creative combination of computer effects and live action in order to flip cars, derail trains and most notably, bend bullets around objects.

Sure, it's a bit reminiscent of The Matrix trilogy's style, but where that series grew self-indulgent; this film has a quirky self-assuredness and sense of humor that gives balance to the darkness of the material.

As for the cast, you can't go wrong putting Jolie in a film like this, but giving her a groovy little character twist really adds something special to the end.

And McAvoy makes for an especially surprising addition to the genre. Who knew a modest little Scottish thespian would make such a powerhouse action hero?

More than a cute little robot

Wall-E

Stars Jeff Garlin, Fred Willard
Director Andrew Stanton

By RICK McGINNIS

REVIEW THERE'S A desolate place at the heart of Pixar's latest feature, not surprising for a movie set in yet another dystopian vision of mankind's future, where the garbage has driven us off the planet and sentient computers threaten to rob us of our free will. And you thought you were just going to be taking the kids to a movie about a cute little robot?

The ghosts of Soylent Green, The Omega Man and 2001: A Space Odyssey hover over little Wall-E, the big-eyed trash-compacting robot who's been left to dig mankind out of its own mess on an earth that looks like the morning after a rock festival.

In the absence of his creators, who are aimlessly cruising the universe on a starship run like a Princess Cruises liner, Wall-E has developed a lovelorn little soul, all the more sad since it's never had an object of its affection, until the day Eve arrives in his vast dump. The film has the sweet, but not cloying, sentimentality of the rest of Pixar's releases, and the same broad appeal for both adults and kids — how else do you explain Fred Willard's cameo, the first live-action human to appear in the studio's films? — but the setting and story feel bleak, and more than a bit underpopulated. It might not be the first Pixar film to give your kids nightmares, but it definitely lacks the warm bustle of the Toy Story films, Finding Nemo or Monsters, Inc.

Intelligence by design

Expelled: No Intelligence Allowed

Stars Ben Stein
Director Nathan Frankowski

By RICK McGINNIS
for Metro Edmonton

REVIEW LIKE THE SUBJECT it explores, Expelled is either going to comfort or infuriate most of the people who see it. That's a shame, since the middle ground — curiosity mixed with healthy skepticism — is probably the wisest reaction to this film featuring writer and TV personality Ben Stein as narrator and host. The film follows Stein on a journey, as he explores a controversy that's been simmering for years in the U.S. about Intelligent Design, a school of thought that suggests that some evidence of innate logic or plan might explain the gaps in evolutionary theory. It's been called a Trojan horse for Creationism, with some good cause, but its defenders charge that anyone who dares speak its name in the hallowed halls of academia are subject to loss of tenure, jobs and reputation. Needless to say, there are proponents on both sides of the issue willing to argue adamantly for their case — you need only visit the film's web site, or expelledexposed.com to explore their arguments.

If you're already convinced of either viewpoint, then actually seeing the film is almost beside the point; it's those in the middle who might actually benefit from a viewing.

The ID side of the debate is hammered home with occasionally overexplicit visual counterpoints, and there have been charged of deceitful practice in obtaining interviews, but Stein and the film make a few queries worth asking, such as why Darwin's more vociferous defenders often sound so high-handed, even emotional, about a theory they claim is proved with rational evidence, and how Darwin's theory was so easily transformed into a justification for one of the most barbaric social programs of the last century — eugenics, which was ultimately enacted on a lethal and monstrous scale by Nazi Germany.

American Girl spreads Sunshine

By RICK McGINNIS
for Metro Edmonton

FEATURE THERE ARE AS many young actors on screen in Kit Kittredge: An American Girl, as there are luminous adults — Stanley Tucci, Joan Cusack, Wallace Shawn and Julia Ormond among them — which is appropriate since this is the film that will be competing with Wall-E for family movie dollars this summer.

Based on one of the immensely popular American Girl dolls, it's features Abigail Breslin (Little Miss Sunshine) as the title character, an inquisitive little girl whose family is suffering from the economic ravages of the Great Depression. The cast also includes movie veterans such as 12-year-old Zach Mills and freshly-minted heartthrob Max Thieriot (Jumper, Nancy Drew), as well as newcomers like Madison Davenport, all of whom suffered a whirlwind press weekend in Los Angeles recently with an entourage of mothers, minders and puppies in tow.

"My grandma grew up in the Great Depression," Breslin tells us, "so I talked to her about that, and she told me things like they put sugar on their tongues and would drink their tea over it, and everybody was in the same situation back then, and she told me that the clothes (in the movie) looked really authentic and everything, so that was good."

"Abby was so sweet," Davenport recalls, when asked about the movie's

Toronto shoot.

"Abigail is so nice and down to earth," agrees Mills.

"She's a professional," Thieriot says. "She's truly like a professional. She's a great person and then she can completely become the character, and then go back to being a 12-year old kid."

Davenport changed her hair colour for her role as Ruthie, Kit's best friend. "I was there when she died her hair," adds Mills, who plays a boarder in the Kittredge house.

"I cut off his circulation," laughs Davenport.

"I very nearly lost an arm," Mills deadpans.

For his role as a young hobo, Thieriot recalls director Patricia Rozema asking if he'd be willing to live the part a bit.

"She said 'What do you think about not eating as much?' And so I literally changed my entire diet on the film, and it doesn't really look like it, but before filming started I was 160 pounds, and I went down to, like, 140. I lost 20 pounds in less than a month by just drinking juice and eating soup."

Breslin mostly remembers working with other kids as being liberating.

"It was really fun to get to work with other kids, but everybody on the movie was really nice and we had fun — me and Madison and Zach would go out every night to a mall or a movie and everything, so it was really fun."

» Kit Kittredge is in theatres across Canada next week.

THE CHRONICLES OF NARNIA: PRINCE CASPIAN

★★★★ (out of 5)
Oscar-nominated director Andrew Adamson (Shrek, Shrek 2) does a fine job bringing the second installment of the Narnia Chronicles to life with a blend of old-fashioned sword fights and dazzling special effects. This is another well-casted, well-written entry in the series.

Steve Carell takes over the role made famous by Don Adams in the original TV series — Maxwell Smart, the bumbling but cocksure secret agent who succeeds in spite of his best efforts. Anne Hathaway does a fine job with Agent 99, played by Barbara Feldon in the TV series, ably matching Feldon's innate sexiness; the only real flaw in Hathaway's portrayal is her inability to evoke the fetchingly neurotic quality Feldon brought to the role.

THE HAPPENING

The very great problem with M. Night Shyamalan's films is that once he departs from the nameless dread so painstakingly created in their setup, they've lost most of their reason to exist. The film is a bit of a departure for the director, since he reveals the big premise early on, and not near the end, sparing the audience the eye-rolling revelations that made Signs and The Village so retroactively disappointing. Unfortunately, that means you can start rolling your eyes and giggling earlier, with the first film that makes itself the punch line to global warming's joke.

THE INCREDIBLE HULK

★★★ 1/2

Ed Norton plays Bruce Banner, the character made famous for them by Bill Bixby in the '70s. The film sets things up quickly — Banner in exile in Brazil, searching for a cure for his "condition" — and rewards us with an action piece and the first appearance of Banner's hulking alter ego within the first half hour. We get the love interest (Liv Tyler), the bad guys (William Hurt and Tim Roth) and the conspiracy theory plot mechanism with a secret military program; everything in its place and a place for everything.

Mike Myers plays a self-help swami who's enlisted to help reconcile a hockey player with an ex-lover in order to end a curse. Although the comedy is filled with terrible penis puns and cracks about midgets, Myers still finds a way to charm us with his quirky characters.

The Year My Parents Went On Vacation

Stars Michel Joelsas, Germano Haiut
Director Cao Hamburger

STC

By RICK McGINNIS
for Metro Edmonton

REVIEW PERHAPS IF Argentina or Chile had a winning soccer team or their own Pelé, their periods of political oppression — with thousands exiled, arrested and "disappeared" — might have been more easily forgotten today.

That's the sort of thought that you can't help entertaining while watching Cao Hamburger's film about a young boy's ricochet between despair and elation in the summer of 1970, when his radical parents drop him off at his grandparents while they go into hiding from Brazil's military dictatorship, promising to return to watch the World Cup with him.

Unfortunately, the grandfather suffers a fatal heart attack mere minutes before his parents arrive, and Mauro (Michel Joelsas) is left in the care of a community of elderly Jews in a suburb full of other immigrants in the process of being absorbed into Brazil's polyglot culture. It's the grandfather's neighbour (Germano Haiut) who grudgingly takes on most of the burden of making sure Mauro eats and bathes, and viewers will be forgiven for anticipating correctly that the boy and the old man "develop a bond," as critics have reflexively summarized so many similar cinematic relationships over the years.

It's only Hamburger's flat tone and low-key visual style that keeps the sentimentality from becoming saccharine, and while Mauro's role is wildly underwritten, it's a credit to Joelsas and the other child actors in the film — what is it about Brazil that produces so many great child actors? — that it can ignore most of the time. Unfortunately, it soft-pedals the gut-punch at the climax of the film, which ultimately feels more like an afterthought.

A trip to Brazil inspires Daria Werbowy's first collection for Lancôme — and helps benefit a worthy cause.

By Michelle Villett
Beauty and Health Editor

Daria Werbowy isn't your typical supermodel. Her five-year career as one of fashion's most sought-after faces should qualify her for diva-like behaviour, but when we meet at Toronto's SoHo Metropolitan Hotel, the 24-year-old Canadian beauty — dressed simply in jeans and a black blazer — comes across as down-to-earth, hard-working and professional. No doubt, it's the reason she was chosen to collaborate with Lancôme on a new limited-edition line of makeup — the first-ever collection created by a spokesmodel. For every product sold, $1.50 will be donated to the Centro Espacial Vik Muniz, a children's charity in Rio de Janeiro. "I went to Brazil a year and a half ago and was introduced to artist Vik Muniz," explains Werbowy. "We went to see the charity he's involved with [the Centro Espacial Vik Muniz], where kids from the favelas — the famous slums of Brazil — go a few times a week. Vik wanted to bring art into their lives and teach them that they don't have to be typecast by society." Werbowy says it's important to use art as a tool to bring people beyond their struggles. "I went to a high school for the arts, and I still take art classes in New York. Art has been something for me to escape to."

have come a long way since they emerged rather shakily from the ashes of the pop-tastic Unicorns in 2005. Arm's Way (ANTI-/Epitaph) is less like a lark and more like the product of a solid, confident band with a much stronger idea of structure and a big crush on Queen. • Aimee Mann's latest collection is @#%&! Smilers* (SuperEgo/Outside Music). Mann is an oddly dispassionate singer, but there's something compelling about her gentle melodies, especially when they're filled out by ultra-tasteful touches of keyboards and strings. MARY DICKIE

FICTIONAL TRUTHS

Uwem Akpan was born in a Nigerian village and is now a teacher in Zimbabwe, a once promising and prosperous country that is rife with civil disorder and violence under the infamous Robert Mugabe. Akpan's first collection of short stories, Say You're One of Them (Little, Brown), is a hauntingly rich evocation of parents struggling to find food to feed their families and the traumas and tribal conflicts that children witness in shantytowns and refugee camps.

NINE LIVES

Regular exercise can add years to your life — nine, in fact, according to a recent study by King's College London. The researchers discovered that fitness buffs (defined as anyone who works out vigorously for at least three hours a week) have longer telomeres — structures that protect DNA and, therefore, prevent cells from aging. Even moderate exercise (up to one-and-a-half hours a week) can provide a four-year advantage. While you're helping to preserve your body, protect the earth by exercising with recyclable fitness gear and opting for an outdoor workout instead of using electrically powered machines. LESLY YOUNG

ask kim

What type of fabrics should I wear and avoid for my first class of hot yoga?

Jasmine Lukuku from Karma Athletics suggests that you look for fabrics that contain a supplex blend (nylon and spandex). It has the feeling of cotton but it breathes well and wicks moisture away from the body. Try to avoid natural fabrics; they often deform as your body heats up and will keep the moisture in while you workout.

E-mail your style questions to kim.elbo@metronews.ca.

workout tops

Stay stylish while working out. These tops are great for a variety of sports, including tennis, golf and yoga. When you're out shopping for one check to see if it includes a built-in sports bra — this is essential for working out. If it doesn't include a built-in bra then look for a tank that has chest pockets for padding. The Strap Tank by lululemon has insertable bra pads to lift you up and keep you secure without having to wear an extra sports bra.

sport bags

Whether we're hitting the gym on our lunch break or scheduling ourselves in between events for a yoga class, we are constantly on the go. So what we need is something that suits our hectic schedules. A large-sized bag is a must when it comes to the gym, especially if you're used to squeezing in a quick workout. Avoid bags with lots of inner pockets — you want to be able to grab your gear easily. Also, try to find something that is easily collapsible so that you can tote it around anywhere or hide it under your desk.

Cash-grab DVD sets: Just don't buy

BOXED IN: In response to my recent column on music issues on DVD reissues of TV shows, reader Jason Smith of Toronto writes:

"I started buying up the Married With Children DVD box sets. After season 2 or 3's set they started putting a 'brand new' theme in there, in the place of the famous Love and Marriage Sinatra song. I wouldn't really mind that much (it's understandable now that all the laws are there about copyright and royalties) but each box set is still roughly $60 to $70 after taxes. You'd think if they are not paying these royalties that even some of the savings would be passed on to the consumer. That discourages me from buying a box set that I could easily just download and burn and make my own box set." "It's not like the quality of most (sitcomish) DVD TV box sets are anything great, they look like garbage on my HD TV so it's not like I'm buying them for the quality of the picture. I'm buying them for the experience and in these cases, the experience is pretty tampered with, with little to no extras (Trailers for other box sets do not count as extras, BTW.)

Jason is so right I'm amazed he can walk in a straight line. Unless they're tricked out with a full menu of extras, verifiably near-HD picture quality or some sort of spectacular packaging, full season TV box sets have to compete with the lowest-priced DVD packages on the market, and in that case we're talking about, say, $23.99.»

"What can you do about it?" asks Giltz. "Don't buy 'em. Any show released in fragments is a show you should avoid like the plague. No matter how big a fan you are, don't let them double dip, as they'd say in Seinfeld." Or you can just download them — evil bad thought of the week — since the picture quality will likely suck on your big new flat panel anyway.

A SALTY BLOG: I'll be posting this weekend on the blog that's changed its address again — I

As Michael Giltz wrote on The Huffington Report web site recently, retail sales of TV shows have gone from an insignificant sliver of studio profits in the VHS era to a major chunk today, but now that DVD sales are finally starting to flatline and even slow, the studios are trying cash grabs like releasing seasons in two

Sleeping separately

Family affair: Madonna and Guy Ritchie enjoyed a three-day break in Italy — but slept in separate rooms, femalefirst.co.uk reports.

The couple — who this week have been dogged by reports their marriage is on the verge of collapsing — left their children, Lourdes, 11, Rocco, seven and two-year-old David with a nanny while they visited Milan at the end of last week.

However, the pair reportedly slept in separate rooms and are said to have spent very little time together. A source close to the couple told Britain's The Sun newspaper: "They had completely separate rooms, schedules, everything. It was all very well organized but it's not a marriage the way most people understand it."

"They have this attitude like, 'We're not really a couple but we're friends and we love each other and raise our kids.' But the truth is they annoy each other, don't agree on anything, don't see each other or live 'together' as they did."

Madonna, 49, used the trip to visit fashion designers to source costumes for her forthcoming world tour, while Guy, 39, was working on a new commercial with actor George Clooney.

It was reported earlier this week that Madonna had hired Fiona Shackleton, the lawyer who represented Sir Paul McCartney in his split from Heather Mills, to handle her and Guy's alleged divorce.

The digits 1 through 9 will appear exactly once in each row, each column, and each zone. (A zone is an outlined 3x3 grid within the larger puzzle grid. There are nine of these zones in the puzzle.) Do not enter a digit into a box if it already appears elsewhere in the same 3x3 zone, or in the same row across the puzzle, or column down the puzzle.
